

What Is An Intermediate Care Facility?

An Easy Read Guide

You have the right to make choices about your life.

You have the right to make choices about where you live and who you live with.

You can choose to live in an intermediate care facility.

These are sometimes called ICFs.

At least 4 people live together in an ICF.

An ICF has staff there 24 hours a day.

ICF staff help make sure you get the services you want to help you live your life.

Services can be things like

- help getting dressed or taking a shower,
- learning to do new things,
- help finding a job that you like,
- help going places.

ICF staff is always there to help you in an emergency.

If you want to know more about living in an ICF, talk to your SSA at your county board of developmental disabilities.
