Participant-Directed Goods and Services is often called PDGS for short. It is a service available through the SELF Waiver that can help you with services, equipment, or supplies that you need when other programs or resources are not available.

Start with Service Planning

The first step to planning for services is to get a good idea of what you need help with right now. Your county board of developmental disabilities uses a few different assessment tools to get to know you. These assessments, not just a note from your doctor, help your service and support administrator, or SSA, identify what services, equipment, or supplies you may need.

Your SSA can help you pull together different resources to meet the needs from your assessment. Those resources can be things like

- unpaid supports, including your family, friends, or neighbors,
- items that you and your family pay for,
- services available through your Ohio Medicaid State Plan benefits,
- local services through a county board of developmental disabilities,
- and services available using a waiver.

PDGS Requirements

Because every person has different needs and different resources available, there is no list of exactly what PDGS will cover.

Instead, the service, equipment, or supplies must

- be something you need to stay healthy and safe,
- be the least expensive item or service that addresses your need,
- and be something that helps you directly and is not something purchased for people that support you.

It must do at least one of these

- decrease your need for a different service of the SELF Waiver,
- help you to be more involved in your community or family,
- help you to be safer in your home,
- offer you more independence,
- or help you improve personal, social, or physical skills.

For more information, read OAC 5123-9-45.

Your SSA can add PDGS as a funding source to meet a current need only if there are no other resources available to meet a need from your assessment.

Add PDGS in Your Service Plan

Talk with your SSA about what you need

Discuss the needs you have right now with your SSA. Talk about how your needs are being met now, what needs are not being met, and what is or is not working for you.

Think about what else you need help with

Your SSA can talk with you about support available through local programs, by using technology, through the SELF Waiver, or from other resources that can help meet the needs from your assessment.

Find out what works for you

Discuss services, equipment, or supplies that can help meet needs from your assessment. Your service plan should include specific information about the services and supports that work for you.

Your SSA can add PDGS as a funding source to meet a current need only if there are no other resources available to meet a need from your assessment.
